ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS REWARD.

RANAWAY from the subscriber on the 29th of October last, a negro man slave named

BOB,

about 20 years of age, five feet nine inches high straight limbed and well formed; said slave hath an impediment in his speech which prevents his readily replying to a question. He commonly wears ear-rings. He took with him a variety of good cloathing, a description of which is unnecessary, as it is probable he has changed them. He has been frequently seen about town since he absconded, and in all probability is now secreted by his mother, Winney Brown, formerly the slave of Mr. JOHN MUIR, late of this town, but now said to be free. The above reward will be paid for securing said Negro BOB, in any goal, and a further reward of TEN DOLLARS for the discovery of those who have been accessary to his concealment.

Captains of vessels, &c. are forwarned at their peril, not to take him away.

Documents

Accompanying the Report of the Committee appointed to enquire into the official conduct of SAMUEL CHASE and RICHARD PETERS.

The additional deposition of Philip Norborne Nicholas taken before George Wythe and Joseph Scott, Esquires, under authority of the House of Representatives of the U. States.

The said Nicholas being asked by the said commissioners what was the general deportment and manner of Judge Chase during the trial of James Thompson Callender, answers—

That the general deportment and manner of Mr. Chase during the said trial, appeared to the said Nicholas to be marked with great violence and precipitation; and that Judge Chase manifested a solicitude for the conviction of the prisoner, which, in the estimation of said Nicholas, was improper in a judge sitting in a criminal prosecution. The said Nicholas further states, that the deportment of judge Chase to the counsel, who appeared for Callender, was rude and overbearing, and calculated to prevent that full and free defence, without which it was impossible for them to do justice to their client.

PHILIP NORBORNE NICHOLAS.

Richmond, February 7th, 1804.

The additional deposition of George Hay, who being asked, what were the manners and deportment of Samuel Chase, during the trial of James Thompson Callender, deposeth and saith,

That it appeared to him at the time of the trial, and he yet believes that the manners of Mr. Chase were intentionally rude and insolent. The deponent thought and still thinks, that Mr. Chase was determined that Callender should, if possible, be convicted, and that to accomplish this purpose he endeavored to intimate, to depress, and to silence his counsel. He interrupted them frequently, with wanton rudeness.—He ordered one, if not more of them to set down. He charged them with advancing doctrines which they knew to be illegal, and which they advanced, he said, only to deceive and mislead the populace. The patience of the deponent was at length exhausted, and he quitted the court and the cause, under a belief that farther exertions in the defence, would only tend to cover himself with still greater shame, and to subject them to still greater humiliation.

The deponent believes that there did not escape from him during the trial, a word or gesture, that could have given offence to the judge. The conduct of his associates was, he believes, equally guarded: he does not therefore ascribe the insolence of Mr. Chase to irritation, occasioned by the conduct of the bar.

The deponent is under no apprehension that his judgment has been much misled, by the circumstances attending his own situation. He knows, and can now name men, whose politics then differed from his own, who expressed their abhorrence of Mr. Chase's conduct in terms as strong as language affords. In fact the public mind was very much excited, and apprehensions were entertained by many, that some serious disturbance might take place. Mr. Munroe, then governor of Virginia, was so completely convinced of the danger, that he not only earnestly recommended moderation and forbearance to those who were daily crowding about him, but kept his eye constantly on the capitol, that he might be ready to command the peace, at the first appearance of commotion. To him Mr. Chase is probably indebted for the safety of his person during his residence in Richmond.

The solicitude of Mr. Munroe to preserve order, arose from causes totally unconnected with Mr. Chase. The character of the state he observed, had never been tarnished by any opposition to the laws, or any outrage on persons clothed with its authority. The preservation of this character at that period (May, 1800) was in his estimation a matter of infinite importance. He therefore urged and intreated those, who, he supposed, might come into collision with the judge, to be patient, under every outrage.

GEORGE HAY.

Richmond, Feb. 7, 1804.

Interrogatories exhibited on the behalf of the House of Representatives of the U. States, to William S. Biddle, touching the official conduct of Samuel Chase and Richard Peters, Esquires, or either of them.

1. Were you present at the second trial of John Fries for treason before the circuit court of Pennsylvania, at the spring term of the year 1800?

2. Have you a correct copy of the opinion of the court delivered in writing to the counsel for the prisoner at that trial?

3. How came it in your possession?

4. Are you confident that the copy, which you now produce, is exactly correspondent with the original?

JOHN RANDOLPH.

THOMAS LEIPER,
MAHLON DICKERSON.

The answers of William S. Biddle to the annexed interrogatorities, in the case of Samuel Chase and Richard Peters Esquires.

1. In answer to the first interrogatory this deponent says that he was present at the second trial of John Fries for treason before the circuit court of the U. States for the district of Pennsylvania, in the spring term of the year 1800.

2. In answer to the second interrogatory he says that he has not a correct copy of the whole opinion delivered by the court in writing to the counsel for the prisoner at that trial. That the paper now produced to the commissioners and hereunto annexed, was written by this deponent during the trial aforesaid, and was preserved by him, among other papers, containing important law opinions and cases. That the following extract from said paper, is to the best of this deponent's knowledge and belief, a correct copy of so much of the opinion expressed by the court before the trial of Fries and delivered in writing, as he understood, to the counsel for the prisoner, viz. "It is the opinion of the court that any insurrection or rising of any body of people within the United States, to attain or effect, by force or violence, any object of a great public nature, or of public and general or national concern, is a levying of war against the United States. On this general position the court was of opinion that any insurrection or rising to resist, or to prevent, by force or violence, the execution of any statute of the United States, for levying or collecting taxes, duties, imposts or excises, or for calling forth the militia to execute the laws of the Union, or for any other purpose (under any pretence, whether as that the statute was unequal, burthensome, oppressive or unconstitutional) is a levying of war against the United States within the constitution." That the remainder of that page of the annexed paper, and the following page to the words "constitute the crime of levying war," contain the substance of the principal points of law stated by the court on that occasion, and that the residue of the contents of said paper annexed, are no part of the opinion of the court, but are authorities and cases added by this deponent for his own use and information.

3. In answer to the third interrogatory he says, that he was at the time of said trial studying law with Wm. Rawle, Esq. then attorney of the United States for the district of Pennsylvania. That he attended the circuit court during almost all the trials for treason in that court, in the year 1799 and 1800, and occasionally assisted Mr. Rawle in writing down the testimony delivered on those trials. That the annexed paper (except as to the latter part of it just mentioned) was according to the best of this deponent's recollection and belief, copied by him in court before the commencement of said trial, from a paper which was then circulating around the bar, as the opinion in writing delivered by the court; and immediately after the same was delivered by the court.

4. To the 4th interrogatory he answers, that he cannot at this time recollect with certainty, whether the annexed paper was or was not copied from the original signed by the court, or delivered by them to the counsel, nor can he be positive that he saw the said original paper; but at the time he supposed the paper from which he took said copy was the original opinion delivered by the court, and he still believes it was.

W. S. BIDDLE.

Circuit Court of the United States April 1800

CHASE AND PETERS.

It is the opinion of the court that any insurrection or rising of any body of people within the United States to attain or effect by force or violence any object of a great public nature or of public and general or national concern is levying war against the the United States, within the contemplation and construction of the constitution of the United States. On this general position the court are of opinion that any such insurrection, or rising to resist or to prevent by force or violence the execution of any statute of the United States for levying or collecting taxes, duties, imposts or excises, or for calling forth the militia to execute the laws of the Union, or for any other purpose (under any pretence, whether as that the statute was unequal, burthensome, oppressive, or unconstitutional) is a levying war against the United States, within the constitution.

NEW YORK, March 13.

By the ship New-York Packet, capt. Webb from Bristol, we have received London papers to the 14th February, being the same dates of those received by the ship Packet. These Papers state—

That a war with England and Spain, it was expected, would soon take place. Spain having nearly completed the refitting of her ships of war, and manning them, was ready to co-operate with France in the invasion of England.

Germany, Russia, and the northern powers, look with a jealous eye upon the French despot, are burnishing up their arms, their troops are in motion, and are only waiting for a favorable opportunity to pounce upon the tyrant of the world.

During Bonaparte's late residence at Boulogne, he superintended an embarkation, as an essay and an exercise of his troops. He rode on a spirited charger, which he spurred along the beach, and was at times up to the girth in the water. In the course of the bustle and confusion of this scene, his horse got entangled by the cable of one of the gun boats, all threw the Chief Consul into the sea, from which he was dragged by his attendants.

A Paris paper of the 4th January, says, "One of our first painters is employed upon a picture representing the First Consul, during the siege of St. Jean d'Acre, receiving in his arms a soldier attacked by the plague and assisting in carrying him to the hospital. This anecdote makes here a great impression. [] B. The presentation of the poisonous cup, at the order for murdering disarmed prisoners at Jaffa, no French painter has yet chosen for a subject.

(Lond. Pap.)

The Queen of Prussia has sent a present to madame Bonaparte of various articles of dress to the value of about 60,000 francs.

General Myers is appointed commander in chief of the British forces in the West Indies.

The deaths at Malaga have abated. On the 16th December the number was only 30: and hopes are entertained that will soon cease.—The fever was said to have been brought by a French ship from St. Domingo; it has carried off 7,000 persons, and caused 50,000 to emigrate.

The weather on the coast of England is stated to have been very tempestuous. Five sail of ships laden with coal, were sunk close to Scarborough; and great numbers of dead bodies were daily thrown on shore by the waves along the whole coast. An English sloop of war was lost near Scotland.

Vessels from New York, Philadelphia, and Alexandria, sailing after 1st December last, were no longer subject to quarantine in Great Britain.

The circumstances re- this unfortunate event are; at 9 ing about five leagues to the east- Tripoli, saw a ship in shore of us ding before the wind to the westward; immediately gave chase. She hoisted politan colours, and continued her rse very near the shore; about eleven ock had approached the shore to seven oms water; commenced firing at her, ch, we continued by running before the d until half past eleven; being then in en fathoms water, and finding our fire ffectual to prevent her getting into Tri- , gave up the pursuit, and was bearing when we ran on the rocks in 12 feet er forward, and 17 feet abaft; immedi- y lowered down a boat from the stern, nded and found the greatest depth of er astern, laid all sails aback, loosed gallant sails, and set a heavy press of canvass on the ship, blowing fresh, to k her off, cast three anchors away from bows, started the water in the hold, e overboard the guns, except some a- t to defend the ship against the gun boats ich were then firing on us; found all s ineffectual, then made the last resort ightening her forward by cutting away fore-mast, which carried the main top llant mast with it; but labor and enter- se were in vain! for our fate was dire- y fixed. I am fully sensible of the loss t has occurred to our country, and the iculty which it may further involve her with this Regency; and feel beyond de- iption for the brave unfortunate officers d men under my command, who have ne every thing in their power worthy of character and stations they filled; and rust on investigation of my own conduct t it will appear to my government and untry consistent with the station in which ad the honor of being placed.

Striking on the rocks was an accident not pos e for me to guard against by any intimation charts as no such shoals were laid down in a. on board, and every careful precaution by ce leads kept heaving, was made use of in ap- aching the shore to effect the capture of a Tri- itan cruizer; and after the ship struck the ks, all possible measures were taken to get her & the firm determination made not to give her as long as possible hope remained, although noyed by gun-boats, who took their position such a manner that we could not bring our ns to bear on them, not even after cutting away t of the stern to effect it.

When my officers and self had not a hope left its being possible to get her off the rocks, and having withstood the fire of the gun boats for 4 hours, and a reinforcement coming out from Tripoli without the least chance of injuring them in resistance, to save the lives of brave men, left no alternative, but the distressing one of hauling our colours down, & submitting to the enemy whom chance had befriended, In such a dilemma the flag of the United States was struck. However painful it will be to our fellow citizens to hear the news, they may be assured that we feel in a national loss equally with them. Zeal of serving our country in doing our duty has placed us in this situation which can be better conceived than described, and from which we rely on our country extricating us.

The gun boats in attacking fired principally at our masts. Had they directed their shot at the hull no doubt but they would have killed many.

The ship was taken possession of a little after sun set, and in the course of the evening myself and all officers with part of the crew, were brought on shore, carried before the Bashaw who asked several questions. From his palace the officers were conducted to the house which Mr. Cathcart lived in, where we lodged last night, and this day the Minister has become the guarantee to the Bashaw, for us officers, and we have given him our parole of honor.

Enclosed you will receive a list of the officers and a few of the people to attend them, who are quartered in the American Consular house, & are to be provided for by such ways and means as I can best adopt, which will be on as economical a plan as possible. The remainder of the crew will be supported by the Regency.

We have all lost every thing but what was on our backs, even part of that was taken off; the loss of the officers is considerable, as they were well provided in every necessary for a long station.

M. Nisson the Danish Consul, has been extremely attentive, and kindly offers every service of assistance.

I trust, sir, you will readily conceive the anxiety of mind I must suffer. After the perusal of the enclosed certificates from the officers on my conduct, should you be pleased to express the opinion of government, you will much oblige me.

I have the honor to be,
Sir,
With the greatest respect,
Your most obe't serv't,
W. BAINBRIDGE.

P. S. Notwithstanding our parole we are not permitted to leave the House or go on the top of it, and they have closed our view of the sea.

The above letter was accompanied by a certificate of the officers of the Philadelphia, bearing testimony to the good conduct of capt. Bainbridge and a list of 43 officers and 264 men in captivity.

On Motion of Mr. Nicholson the message was immediately referred to the committee of Ways and Means.

Extract of a letter from the Purser of the Argus, dated Cadiz Bay, Jan. 22.

"The loss of the Philadelphia is a severe blow to our little squadron. The Commodore has sent home dispatches from which you will learn the particulars. The officers are in the American Consular house, and are said to be generously treated, which, I suspect, is not altogether the case with the crew. In consequence of this disastrous event, we are at a loss to judge what policy will be pursued by the United States. I hope however to see a sufficient addition to the present squadron in the spring to convince the powers of Barbary, that we are not disheartened by the loss of one frigate. Every thing rests quiet with Morocco. The spirited conduct of commodore Preble has had a very happy effect. Toulon and Genoa still remain blockaded by Lord Nelson's squadron. The fever is said to have entirely subsided at Malaga. There is a report, that 140 of the crew of the Philadelphia have claimed protection of Lord Nelson, as being British subjects, but that he refuses to interfere in the business."

A London paper of the 24th December says, Mr. Livingston, the gentleman who arrived here a few days ago from Paris, is Lieutenant Colonel in the service of the United States, and son in law to Mr Livingston the American Envoy at Paris.

We have no grounds to suppose that the Colonel is charged with any propositions for an accommodation between France and this country.

Congress of the United States

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

FRIDAY March 16.

An engrossed bill supplementary to the act incorporting the Bank of the United States—authorising a branch at New-Orleans, was read the third time.

Mr. Varnum opposed; and Messrs. J. Clay and S. L Mitchil supported it.

The question being taken, it passed—Ayes 59.

An engrossed bill concerning the public buildings in the City of Washington was read the third time and passed—Ayes 60.

An engrossed bill in addition to the naturalization law, was read the third time, and on the question whether the same shall pass; it was supported by Messrs. Leib, S. L. Mitchill, J. Clay, Smilie and Findley; and opposed by Messrs. R. Griswold, Dana and Alston.

The question was then taken by Yeas and Nays, and the bill passed; Yeas 65—Nays 38.

The bill exonerates aliens, entering the United States between the years 1798 and 1802, from complying with the first provision of the act of 1798, requiring a declaration made in a court of the intentions of the alien to become a citizen, five years previous to his admission to citizenship.

The House resumed the consideration of the unfinished business of yesterday, viz. the report of the committee of the whole on the bill providing for the government of Louisiana.

The new section, offered by Mr. Rhea, declaring all grants of lands in Louisiana made since the treaty of St. Ildefonso void, was again taken into consideration.

A debate of considerable length ensued, in which Messrs, Nicholson, J. Clay, Rhea, (of Ten.) Gregg, Holland, Smilie, and Alston supported; and Messrs. Lyon, Dana, Elliot, Early and G. W. Campbell opposed it.

The question was taken by Yeas and Nays on Mr. Rhea's amendment, and carried in the affirmative; Yeas 60, Nay 42.

Various other amendments where agreed to, which shall be hereafter particulary stated, when the bill was ordered to a third reading to morrow.

A message was received from the Senate communicating a bill supplementary to an act respecting the election of a President and Vice President which was referred to a committee of the whole.

The bill provides for the mode in which information shall be communicated to the several states of the adoption of the proposed amendment to the constitution, in case it shall be ratified by a constitutional number of states, and directs the electors, in case such information shall be received, to vote in two different ways, the one of which shall not be in conformity to the original article of the constitution, and the other in conformity to the proposed amendment.

Saturday, March 17.

The bill erecting Louisianna into two territories, and providing for the temporary government thereof, was read the third time.

Mr. Dawson moved the recommitment of the bill for amendment.

Mr. Alston was against a general recommitment of the bill, but friendly to a recommitment for the purpose of limiting its duration.

Messrs. Nicholson, Smilie, Early, and S. L. Mitchell opposed the recommitment.

Mr. Bedinger advocated the recommitment.

The motion to recommit was then negatived Ayes 39, Noes 43.

Mr. Alston said, if there was no objection, he would move the insertion of a clause to limit the period of the bill, on account principally of the great powers conferred on the executive.

This motion being objected to by Mr. Lyon, was declared out of order.

The question was then put on the passage of the bill.

Messrs. Lyon, Sloan, Jackson and Bedinger opposed, and Mr. Smilie supported its passage.

Mr. Varnum moved to recommit, for ammendment, that part of the bill that vests equity powers in the courts of Louisianna.

Motion negatived—Ayes 39—Noes 44.

A motion was made to recommit the 4th section which was lost, Ayes 15.

Mr. Bedinger moved to recommit the last section for the purpose of obtaining a limitation to the act.

Motion carried, Ayes 52.

The house went into a committee of the whole—I. C. Smith in the chair, on the last section.

When Mr. Nicholson moved an amendment limiting the act to two years and at the end of the next session thereafter.

Mr. Bedinger said he would like its limitation to one year better; but would if it were the sense of the House, be satisfied with two years.

Mr. Nicholson's motion was agreed to without a division.

The house agreed to the amendment when the final question was put on the passage of the bill, and carried in the affirmative by yeas and nays, Yeas 66, Nays 21.

THE JACOBIN TRIUMPHANT.

"That vice should triumph, virtue vice obey,
This caus'd some doubts"———

[Tune Vicar of Bray]

I'M a ranting roaring jacobin.
This no one can gainsay sir;
When constitution was the theme,
I ru'd the awful day sir.
'Gainst government I've ever rail'd,
'Gainst order and 'gainst law sir,
To damn such measures never fail'd,
From principle I trow sir,
For this I've gain,d as you may see,
The object of my wishes;
To loll in coach from taxes free,
And taste the "loaves and fishes"

When Washington first took the helm,
A terror to our race sir.
His magic name throughout the realm
Our projects did efface sir:
Yet true to jacobinic cause,
Without prevarication,
I curs'd the wisdom of his laws,
Nor fear'd his indignation.
For this I've gained, as you may see,
The object of my wishes,
I drink my whiskey, taxes free,
And taste the "loaves and fishes."

When whiskey lads oppos'd the laws,
When Albert rul'd the roast, sir,
His warmest friend I own I was,
Nor fear'd the noose or post sir:
To stop "de veels of goovernment"
His plans I oft promoted;
T' excite alarm and discontent,
His every measure voted.
Let wild misrule forever claim,
A jacobin's best wishes,
For liberty is but a name
Without the "loaves and fishes."

Virginia's blacks and Europe's rogues,
Our props and our support sir,
The refuse from dear Erin's bogs,
Are all the thing at court sir;
Our Chief's their friend, and well he may,
He's under obligation,
To them he owes his present sway,
And rules a cheated nation.
Such instruments are pretty things,
And pat to all our wishes,
Their "useful labor" surely brings
The promis'd "loaves and fishes."

Ou cause prevails, in reason's spite,
And fed'ralism's discarded,
We hum the people wrong or right,
Nor are we unrewarded:
Ot spoil each has his promis'd gain,
Of office each his choice sir,
From Albert down to Bill Duane,
By presidential voice sir.
Huzza! my lads, then mind your eye,
You know the Mammoth's wishes,
Once more your arts successful ply,
And twig the "loaves and fishes."

N. B. Prizes subjected to a deduction of fifteen per cent.

This lottery has been authorised by the legislature of Virginia, for the laudable purpose of erecting a seminary of learning in or near the metropolis of this state. With this view, it is contemplated to raise 20,000 dollars, and 5,000 dollars in addition, for defraying the expences attendant on drawing the lottery. Citizens of the first respectability have been selected as trustees, and they have pledged themselves to use their utmost exertions to carry it into effect. The scheme has the advantage of giving to each adventurer, a chance for some very large prizes, whilst the proportion of prizes to blanks, is so great as to invite the friends of the intended institution to partake of the lottery, with very little risk of their becoming loosers. The treasurer of this state is to be appointed to receive the money for the tickets as they are sold, and to pay the amount of the prizes to the fortunate adventurers. It is believed that the above considerations will induce a rapid sale of tickets and the drawing will commence as soon as a sufficient number shall be sold to authorize it—which it is believed will be on the second Monday in December next.
